Our green statement and why we do the things we like to do.

Our story; solid companies and „green“ products.

Papermail arose from the idea that Europe is bigger than the Netherlands. From European perspectives, the Netherlands distinguishes itself through its polder model. A concept that we wanted to extend in one line within the organization of Papermail by establishing a strong, compact organization with underlying support from more than twenty European suppliers, each with their specific knowledge and expertise, each contributing to the fulfillment of the wishes of our customers.

Papermail loves Paper.

We believe that in the future paper and cardboard are the basic raw material for communication and packaging and also will increasingly be used as a substitute for plastic. That is why we at Papermail enjoy daily looking for solutions where we can make sustainable paper and cardboard even more and better usable for our clients.

At Papermail we constantly search for the best European suppliers and create this way a large European network with suppliers producing their products qualitatively and sustainably for Papermail with pride, knowledge and lots of important expertise.

Basically a solid bottom for future growth in sustainable procurement and to corporate social responsibility.

FSC, ISO, TUV, Der Blaue Engel and a good feeling

In contrast to the Netherlands, foreign companies often have better certifications and are often far ahead in sustainable investments.

Certificates are good, of course, but a close look at the workplace and a good conversation with employees really show the value of a certificated suppliers. For Papermail an important reason to cooperate only with (new) suppliers when we have examined the workplace and the complete production.

A clean working environment with friendly and skilled staff and the proces with raw materials, finally dealing with waste and the (re) use of our pressious water. That makes for us trusted certifications and a good supplier.

All affiliated companies have at least an FSC certificate for the delivery of FSC certified products made from wood and pulp from responsibly managed forests and have at least ISO 9001: 2015. For us, the confidence that companies say what they do, do what they say and, finally, can prove to us what they make. A good and familiar feeling to be able and trusted in the complete production process. At last we can shake a „green hand“. That's our goal with only quality suppliers from the Netherlands, Belgium, Germany, Poland, Denmark and Austria.

Highest level in transport and warehousing.

To find the best suppliers in the European market we travel a lot. But distances between Papermail and it's suppliers is never more than nine hours maximum in driving and not more than three hours of flying. Reasons for this are very simple. A minimum damage for our enviroment and a very quick intervention when having problems in production or in design . We only can work this way when having short lines in total communication.

Traveling for our customers and finding precious production pearls in the Eurpean market. We are always searching for the best.

Papermail cooperates with two transport companies taking care of our products throughtout Europe and only drive with trucks with emmision standard Euro 6 and trucks and trailers not older than three years.

Papermail has a central European hub were all the printed products are being collected.and transport takes place all over Europe. We do our very best to drive only with full trucks straight to our customers or the Papermail warehouse.

Finaly we are proud, very proud.

Proud on our work and the way we do it. Proud on our products, our suppliers and their staff. And of course we are very proud on our clients and their believe in what we do. We keep close contact to know exactly the wishes we can produce and deliver quality products just in time and on the spot.

Sustainable paper, strong cardboards and basicly the best raw material for a green future in packaging and communication. A new future for all of us and proudly made by Papermail. More information?
